Canoe Trips: What are the Skill Pre-requisites?

All beginners can raft any river. But canoe trips require specific skill pre-requisites.

Our raft expeditions are designed for people of any skill level including novices. Some raft trips offer canoeing as an option. In these cases, canoe pre-requisites apply and must be met.

Tandem canoe trips are much more skill specific than raft trips. Careful thought must be applied to assessing your canoe skill level. On some rivers we have an alternative approach that can modify skill requirements with the use of our 'canyon rig' strategy. Above rapids we can catamaran canoes together in pairs, which means you can enjoy greater stability while going for the biggest waves. In flatter sections we disassemble the rigs.

Canoe Trip Skill Pre-requisites

YUKON & HORTON CANOE

You have canoed previously and know the rudimentary strokes: bow, reverse, "j", draw, pry and sweep. You are comfortable paddling in the bow and working with another partner or you have river reading

Raft or Canoe?

We can accommodate beginners on our raft trips but when it comes to canoes, selecting an appropriate trip for your skill level is critical to both the safety and enjoyment of your river holiday.

Are you a Whitewater Paddler?

Have you swum through a long rapid with a flipped canoe? If not, you have yet to earn your stripes as a whitewater canoeist. Take a whitewater course and practice whitewater recovery skills before your trip.

Canoe Trips: What are the Skill Pre-requisites?

skills and can control the canoe from the stern while working with another partner.

STIKINE & WIND CANOE

You have mastered the skills above. You have taken an introductory river canoeing course and have experience paddling on Grade II rivers. In addition you have river reading skills and can work effectively with a partner to side slip and back ferry to move the canoe laterally in Grade II water with precision. You can comfortably apply these skills to navigating tight bends and avoiding log jams.

NAHANNI 2-WEEK, NAHANNI 3-WEEK HIKING, NAHANNI 8- OR 12-DAY & COPPERMINE CANOE

You possess the skills above and have completed a whitewater canoe course. You are able to read Grade III water and quickly formulate strategies while working with a partner to navigate. Unless you opt for the canyon rig strategy for the main rapids you match the following description:

At least once a year for the two previous seasons or more, you paddle Grade II/III whitewater with friends or a canoe club. You are committed to at least one "warm up" trip or course prior to the planned trip this season. We can modify these requirements by the use of "canyon rigs" for the rapids but this must be discussed with us before booking.

MOOSE PONDS, MOUNTAIN RIVER, SNAKE RIVER & BURNSIDE CANOE

You possess the abilities and judgment level above and have a more extensive "whitewater play" background. For the last three years or more you have paddled Grade III whitewater at least three times per year and enjoy practicing technical moves. You are committed to at least one "warm up" trip or course prior to the planned trip this season.

CANYON RIG DESCRIPTION

On some rivers we have an alternative approach that can modify these requirements with the use of our "canyon rig" strategy. Above the rapids, we can catamaran the canoes together in pairs, which means you can enjoy greater stability while going for the biggest waves. In the flatter sections we disassemble the rigs and canoe conventionally.

I AM A WHITEWATER KAYAKER & HAVE NOT CANOEED PREVIOUSLY

If this is the case, please contact us directly and we can discuss your background in relation to the trip you are considering.

CANOES & 'SWIMMING'

Only on a rare occasion will a participant fall out of a raft. On the other hand, tipping a canoe and 'going for a swim' is considered an integral part of canoe sport. One or more canoes flipped at any time is a normal event and is not considered an emergency or incident. The group simply recovers the swimmers and boats. When all is secure, the group continues down the river. It's part of the fun.

In class II and greater rapids, a neoprene wet suit or fabric dry suit is mandatory. On other rivers many will opt for the neoprene wet suit although some paddlers (with strong internal 'furnaces') will opt for rain gear worn over polypropylene and fleece on whitewater days. Feel free to consult with us for more information specific to the river you have selected. Helmets are mandatory on all whitewater canoe trips which we can provide.
